Corporate Records Research Case Review

Anonymised retrospective review | CR-01

Archived company-search reports name Edward Omondi as case officer and carry Biz Brokers Kenya branding. They document corporate-record research experience. This retrospective review is prepared for RVS Kenya and preserves the original attribution.

Record status	Completed historical research reports with supporting official extracts
Historical period	Report archive dated 2017 to 2021
Review prepared	9 November 2026

What the retained material shows

The archive contains five company-research reports covering incorporation details, recorded capital, directors or shareholders, source notes and researcher comments.

Two retained official company-search extracts allow comparison with corresponding research reports. These are dated records, not current statements of ownership.

In one 2021 pair, the nominal capital agrees but the report and official extract describe a different number and nominal value of shares. The shareholder total agrees with the official extract rather than the report narrative.

In a 2018 pair, the report date precedes the retained extract issue date by one day, and the extract separately states an earlier records-as-at date. Those dates must not be treated as interchangeable.

Interpretation and limitations

What this example demonstrates

Match the legal name and registration number before comparing documents.

Read the record issue date separately from any records-as-at date.

Reconcile nominal capital, share count, share value and shareholder totals before presenting a conclusion.

What it does not establish

The share-description discrepancy is identified in this 2026 retrospective comparison. The archive does not establish that it was identified or resolved in the original assignment.

A missing annual return in a reviewed file does not, by itself, prove that no ownership change occurred. Blank security or charge fields do not establish that no encumbrance exists.

No present-day registry search was performed for this case review. Current ownership, status, encumbrances and client transaction outcomes are not established.

The original reports are attributed to Biz Brokers Kenya and Edward Omondi. They are not reissued as original RVS reports, and the archive does not establish that the two business names are the same legal entity.

Attribution and source handling

Evidence keys C01-C07 in the privately retained source register. Subject names, registration numbers, addresses, third-party personal names and individual holdings are omitted from this public review.

This document is a newly prepared anonymised review of historical material. It is not the original report, a fresh investigation of the subject, a client testimonial or a current licence certificate.
